

Wire. When many knitters hear that word, they involuntarily rub their hands and hide them away in their pockets. But those of us who have knitted with wire know that it doesn't need to be painful. Sure, it doesn't have the give of wool; it's more like knitting with linen or hemp. But once you learn how to handle it, knitted and crocheted wire yields beautiful jewelry that you cannot duplicate with other methods. And best of all? You can create a beautiful piece in less than a day. Read More