Construction Notes: Worked both in the round and back-and-forth. Bodies are knit from top to head using short rows to shape the belly and head, and bodies made along back of tail and body. Eyes, arms and legs made separately, then attached. Pieces are stuffed as you go. Cardigan bodies are worked from pieces with stitches placed on hold for armholes, and then joined together at top. Sleeves are picked up at the armholes and worked down. Bodies knit clockwise.
