

I didn't get to TNNA, so I missed the apparent feeding frenzy around this little gem. But I did get a nice little email about it this morning, so I thought you'd like to see it too, if you haven't already.

The Knit Kit is a kind of swiss army knife for knitters, with everything in it, and is TSA airline safe, so you can get all knitterly on that cross country plane ride without fear of confiscation. Tape measure, scissors, stitch markers, crochet hook, built in row counter, thread cutter, all in a tidy 5 by 3.5 inch package. Look for it showing up all over the place in March.
